

MFS Creative Writing Competition 2017-18

F.3 2nd Prize

Lai Kei Kwan Kate, 3B-13

How can we express our care and love to the handicapped?

Many people suffer from some serious health conditions which cause them physical inability. It brings a great deal of pressure and inconvenience to their daily life. Sometimes, they feel hopeless as they cannot find any solutions to their problems. For this reason, we must show love and care to the handicapped.

Firstly, we have to welcome them to our society. Although they are handicapped, they should still be respected and have equal human rights. We should lend our helping hand to them whenever they need and give them encouragement to live a happy life. Also, we should teach them how to stand on their own feet. It is not something very difficult to do and it can make them feel the warmth from society.

Secondly, we have to provide a comfortable environment for them to live. For example, better facilities should be provided to help them to improve their living standard. For example, the government can set up some barrier-free facilities in public places. Facilities can also be provided to enable them get out of their home easily.

Thirdly, we can join some events in community centres to help the handicapped. Many community centres or organizations hold activities for the handicapped. Through volunteering in these activities, we can provide the handicapped necessary services like cleaning their house or supplying lunch boxes to them. It is a good opportunity to show our care and love with this little help that we offer.

The above methods can help the handicapped feel less lonely, making them feel that society accept them readily with open arms. We should never isolate the handicapped. Let us take actions to express our care and love now.